To convince you to give them money and personal information, scammers will often:

- Force you to make decisions fast and may threaten you.
- Use fake caller IDs to disguise their real numbers.
- Pretend to be a government employee (e.g. IRS or the Social Security Administration).
- Pressure you not to consult with friends and family.
- Urge you to hand over personal information like your Social Security number, account numbers or financial information.
- Always remember: if an offer sounds too good to be true, it most likely is!

If you see something suspicious, call the
